The Department wishes to express its appreciation for the support received from your post in the important activity of foreign publications procurement. The Department is acting on behalf of more than twenty Government departments and agencies, including the members of the Procurement of Foreign Publications Committee of the United States Intelligence Board. Representatives of these departments all utilize the Foreign Service in varying degrees for the procurement of foreign publications.

There are many ways these publications serve important projects throughout the Government. The timely and continuing procurement service provided is essential to the conduct of the various programs. The valuable support given the procurement program by the local personnel is recognized, particularly the fact that it is they who undertake the necessary but often routine details involved before a transaction is completed.

The Department recommends that you personally commend the local personnel involved in the publications procurement program for their loyal and devoted performance on behalf of the Department and the other U. S. Government agencies concerned.

Listed below are the local personnel recommended for commendation:

Berlin

- a. Helga Dethlof: Administrative Assistant, since February 1950. Serves as secretary to PO, does outstanding work, and in the words of PO, "has an almost photographic memory, is faithful and very pro-American."
- b. Fritz Mehnert: Publications Procurement Agent, since October 1951. According to PO, "he is a good and dependable worker, is in charge of the office during my absence. He comes from the booktrade and knows the best sources. He orders, keeps records and checks bills. I can always call on him for extra work."
